

What About The Proposed Charter?

(To determine just what the proposed charter will do for the city of Kingston, the columns of The Freeman will be open to any question on the document. The questions will be turned over to the Charter Revision Commission for answering and will appear in this column from time to time as they are asked and answered.)

Q. Do the people lose their right of representation by the abolition of ward aldermen?

A. Under the new charter the people do not lose their representation by the discontinuance of ward aldermen. The average citizen seems to believe that, if a catch basin is not working properly, if a street light in front of his home is out of order, if the roadbed of the street in front of his property is badly disintegrated, if the sewer which serves his premises is blocked or broken that he can correct the situation and obtain relief by presenting his problem to the alderman of the ward. That is altogether untrue. The Board of Aldermen have no power over the foregoing situations whatsoever, and, to those people who have attended meetings of the Common Council, the procedure is to this effect:

An alderman introduces a resolution to place a new street light at a certain point in the city. This pleases the people in the ward because they feel that the alderman is doing something in their behalf. However, they are sadly mistaken, because the alderman-at-large, presiding over the Common Council, simply says "refer it to the Board of Public Works." The Board of Public Works may consider the resolution, and again they may not, as the alderman introducing the resolution will not be present at the board meeting to force the issue and the result is that, in most cases, nothing is done about the matter and the resolution is lost in the city records.

The new charter provides that the public may come to the City Hall on the second Monday of each month. There they will meet the Mayor and the heads of all the departments of the city, who are convened to listen to the suggestions and complaints of the citizens of the community. There is no guess-work as to whom to present a problem as the entire city cabinet is present and in that group is the official whose duty it is to correct a presented complaint.

However, if the person desires to do business through an alderman, under the new charter he will have five minutes to go to, as four councilmen and the president of the common council are elected from the city at large. This is an advantage to the individual citizen in view of the fact that he may present his cause to five representatives, instead of at present one alderman who is elected in his ward.

Do you desire the inadequate ward alderman representation of the old charter, or do you prefer the representation of five aldermen, all interested in your needs and welfare, with the opportunity of meeting at a given time with the Mayor and the heads of the various city departments?

Property Owners Asked to Submit Sidewalk Projects

The following invitation to property owners was issued today by Superintendent Norton of the Department of Public Works:

"Regulations which will govern the new work relief state that this city will receive $758 per year per man employed on WPA projects. Of that amount, about $600 must be paid in wages to the man, which leaves $158 per man per year for materials, tools, truck hire and equipment.

On projects over $758 per year per man in cost, the city must furnish the balance.

Curbs and sidewalk projects, whether new or replacements, will be accepted.

Many properties have no curbs or sidewalks. Many curbs need straightening or repair, and many sidewalks need relaying.

This is an excellent opportunity for property owners to get this labor furnished at no cost to themselves.

It is suggested that those desiring their properties or streets curbed, and sidewalks (bluestone or concrete) laid, send in petitions to the Board of Public Works requesting the work done, and agreeing to furnish the material. The WPA forces will do the work with no cost to the owners except the cost of materials. Accurate estimates will be cheerfully given as to what the cost of the curb or sidewalk will amount to.

This agreement will make it possible to do constructive and permanent work which will make our city more safe and more attractive, with no cost for labor to the owner, and will provide employment for men.

Kingstonians For and Against Proposed New City Charter

James McIntyre, 117 Clinton avenue: I have heard in the current discussion of the charter that the water board was efficient and non-political. Although I have been very much in favor of the charter I was uncertain as to abolishing the Water Board.

However, since recent happenings in the Water Board, and after reading that the three Republican members of the board make an inspection of the water works one day, and the two Democratic members making an inspection on another day, and each bringing in different reports as to what should be done about such an important service as the water supply of the city of Kingston, I am now convinced that if any board of the city should be abolished it is the water board.

And to make matters worse, I understand a wholesale grocer who is a member of the water board takes it upon himself to go to Cooper Lake and instructs the chemist as to what kind of chemical to put in the water that the citizens of this city drink—and then even worse, the chemist I tell him to do.

This seems to me to be a splendid example of what happens when too many part-time bosses are in charge of the city's affairs. And the officials, who stand for election and are elected by the people, have to stand by and can do nothing. I am voting for the new charter with a vengeance and I hope everybody else interested in good government does likewise.

I favor the proposed New City Charter, and honestly believe that the living conditions of the working people will be greatly improved if the same is voted into law by the people of our city. As a labor worker I am in a position to know that the system used in our city government at the present time is not efficient, and does not tend to create better conditions for the working classes. Most people think that when they elect an alderman in their ward that he will have the power to

Nazi Drive Against Protestant Churches Is Also Indicated

Berlin, July 19 (AP)—Indications of a Nazi drive against politics in Germany's Protestant Churches, as well as in the Roman Catholic, were seen today simultaneously with the appointment of an avowed anti-Semitic as head of the Berlin police. Count von Helldorf was named president of Berlin's police to succeed Magnus von Levetzow, who resigned under the criticism that he had failed to chase the Jews out of Berlin or at least restrict them to the Ghetto.

Roman Catholic priests were warned against taking part in politics by Reichsfuehrer Hitler's Voelkischer Beobachter.

On top of all this the National Zeitung at Essen, which is regarded as the personal mouthpiece of General Hermann Wilhelm Goerring, Minister of Aviation, Premier of Prussia, and head of the secret police, warned Protestants that opposition to Reichsbishop Mueller and "German Christian" Nazis, could expect as hard a fight as the Catholic hierarchy.

"One may be sure," the newspaper declared, "that the watchful eye of the state will be directed not only against political Catholicism but that it equally intensely observes the currents inimical to the state which are gaining ground in parts of the Protestant confessional movement." "At any rate, there are various indications that the state no longer is willing leniently to overlook fights within the Protestant Church from which arise constant sources of disturbance of the peace and order in the life of the state."

Something has to be done about it and people with money are the only ones who can check the present collapse into chaos."

Water Crisis Improves Ban on Garages Ends, Sprinkling Next Week

Reason for Part Conservation is to Insure Plenty of Water in the Event a Large Fire Should Occur in This City.

WATER BOARD MET

Superintendent Darrow Authorized to Employ Inspectors, Foremen and Others Needed.

The water situation in Kingston is well in hand, it was reported to Mayor Conrad J. Heiselman today, and by the early part of next week the conservation period should be over.

Notification has been given to garages and commercial houses that they may wash cars now, but sprinkling with hoses is still banned. It is presumed that permission for the use of hoses will be given presently.

The reason for part conservation yet, although all of the breaks in the water line have been repaired, is to give the equalizing reservoir a chance to fill up. Its capacity is 12 million gallons. Yesterday it was about two-thirds full.

President Harry H. Flemming today said that permission for full consumption of water will be given as soon as possible. One of the chief reasons for waiting until the equalizing reservoir fills, before giving permission to sprinkle, etc., is to make sure of sufficient pressure in case of fire.

President Flemming and the water board met in session at the city hall Thursday night to hear reports on the water situation and transact routine business.

Superintendent Henry D. Darrow reported the leaks in the pipeline from Cooper Lake have been repaired, as had been announced unofficially through the press immediately after the jobs had been completed at Shady and Sawkill. Mr. Darrow, who has been high in his praise for the work done by his regular workmen and men from the E.R.B., repeated it personally before the board last night.

Among the resolutions passed at the meeting were those to retain Miss Belle Burger as bookkeeper, James Caird as chemist and Howard A. Harcourt as his assistant. Superintendent Darrow was authorized to employ inspectors, foremen and other employees required to operate the business of the water department at rates not in excess of those at present in force.

A resolution was passed approving the action of Superintendent Darrow in connection with conducting the recent repair work on the water line that was severely damaged by the flood.

The board also commended Superintendent Darrow's arrangements with the E.R.B. and the cooperation given by that body.

White Bank to Remodel. Betz-Southard in Charge

The National Ulster County Bank of Kingston, Wall and John streets, known locally as the "White Bank", is to remodel its building and there will be added to the bank a second and third floor. The two upper floors will be divided into desirable offices.

Contract for the alterations has been awarded to Frank D. Southard who started operations this morning. Gerard Betz is the architect in charge.

Several years ago the building which houses the bank was altered and at that time the second floor of the building was removed and the banking house heightened to the full two stories. The third floor remained intact. Present alteration plans are to replace this second floor which was removed and divide it into office suites.

State, National Units Agree on Flood Relief Course, Begin at Once

Albany, N. Y., July 19 (AP)—A thick sheet of red tape was cut away today to speed the flow of federal dollars into flood wrecked upstate New York communities and clearly define the tasks of the many state and national agencies engaged in relief and rehabilitation work.

Moving along a half dozen fronts to aid flood sufferers, the state and national relief agencies agreed upon the following course:

Flood control—to be left entirely in the hands of army engineers who have decided to ask for federal funds to make a survey of the situation in 18 New York and two Pennsylvania counties. The cost of the survey will be approximately $200,000 and 40 men will be required to do the work. Little delay is expected in obtaining the money as the work is considered part of the National Emergency Relief program and can be paid for from relief funds also. President Roosevelt asked for the survey and the army considers it a worthy project.

Relief—The American Red Cross to carry the bulk of the burden of catering to the immediate needs of destitute families.

Rehabilitation—A dozen agencies, principally the Works Program Administration, the State Temporary Emergency Relief Administration, the State Rural Rehabilitation Corporation, the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and the Federal Housing Administration, all cooperating.

The major developments in the flood situation took place in Washington where New York State representatives pushed through or introduced measures to relieve suffering and speed rehabilitation work.

One of the most important steps came as the senate approved without debate the Wagner bill extending through 1935 and 1936 the availability of a $3,500,000 Reconstruction Finance Corporation fund for flood rehabilitation loans to non-profit making corporations. The move was designed primarily to make the money available for New York state.

Maliccone, it was charged, left the scene of the accident and was traced to his home where he was arrested yesterday.

Fourteen Thousand Persons Already Have Joined "Love of Country" Association Founded Thursday at Addis Ababa.

CAPITAL QUIET

Italians Regard Selassie's Exhortation as a Certain Assurance of War.

(Copyright 1935, By Associated Press) Addis Ababa, July 19—Widespread general mobilization order which is spread military preparations for the throughout Ethiopia today, following Emperor Haile Selassie's speech in which he warned his subjects that it was better to die free than to live conquered.

Specific details of the military step were not available in the capital, but a new note of determination was seen in the attitude of the general public, following the emperor's intimation that war with Italy was almost inevitable.

Fourteen thousand persons already have joined the new patriotic association, Amour Pour La Patrie—"Love of Country"—formed at last night's big meeting of adherents to the emperor's plea for unity.

Unconfirmed reports of a new incident on the northern frontier were received but the foreign ministry was unable to gain a certified report on the details of what may have happened.

The emperor's firm declaration that Ethiopia would never accept a mandate or protectorate of any nature was enthusiastically received by the people and seemed effectively to dispose of reports abroad that such a plan to avert war was under consideration.

Addis Ababa was quiet this morning. The emperor's assurance that resident foreigners were in no danger and the measures already taken for their security had a quieting effect, although Italians continued to stream out from the capital.

The black-bearded King of Kings and Conquering Lion of Judah turned his personal attentions immediately to his army, announcing the promotion of several officers with whom he offered to shed his own life blood, if need be, for independence from Italy.

The prevailing tropical rains guarded against any immediate outbreak of hostilities, but American and European residents of this high-set capital, towering above the boggy lowlands, were convinced that all hopes for peace after the rainy season ends in September were relinquished.

Foreigners took some consolation from a personal pledge by the emperor that, whatever happens, no harm would befall their lives or property at the hands of Ethiopians.

There was some talk that Addis Ababa, which means "new flower," would be evacuated promptly on an outbreak of war because of the fear of attack from Italian bombing planes.

Members of the German colony, in a meeting with the German ambassador, decided to remain in Addis Ababa through thick and thin. The Ethiopian Coptic Christians welcomed a pledge of loyalty and armed support of Mohammedans, given by the Somali chief of Ogaden at the close of the emperor's address yesterday to parliament.

Speaking in Arabic, which was translated into the state language of Amharic, the Somali chief declared that the Mohammedans would fight to the last man against any invader and cried: "Long live the emperor and Ethiopia."

Other Reactions.

Addis Ababa—His Emperor Haile Selassie's call to his people to defend Ethiopia's independence to the death aroused demonstrations of enthusiasm as foreign residents expressed a belief all hope of averting war with Italy was abandoned.

Rome—Italian unofficial circles said Emperor Haile Selassie's address rendered certain an armed settlement of Italy's dispute with Ethiopia. London—Great Britain took new impetus for its drive for peace between Italy and Ethiopia from Haile Selassie's speech which some diplomatic quarters interpreted as tantamount to a declaration of general mobilization.

Geneva—Officials of the League of Nations indicated hope that the Italo-Ethiopian dispute might yet be settled by peaceful means, pointing out that the Commission of Conciliation still has until July 25 to reach a decision or to extend its deliberation.

Tokyo—The Japanese foreign office attached particular importance to the Emperor's address because it was a debate between white and colored races, but a foreign office spokesman asserted that Japan merely is "watching with great concern."

Syracuse Publisher Rebuked for Attack On Agricultural Act

Ithaca, N. Y., July 19 (AP)—An attack on the agricultural adjustment act by Jerome D. Barnum brought from the agricultural adjustment division of information today the report that he had apparently "forgotten that one of the fundamental reasons for the depression was the impoverished condition of the farmers."

Barnum, Syracuse publisher and president of the American Newspaper Publishers Association, told the American Institute of Cooperation last night that the AAA put "a tax on the working man and woman of this country, the wage earner, for the very necessities of life—food, shelter and clothing."

The division's reply, issued through Nathan Koenig, asserted that processing taxes had increased business and employment in industrial centers as well as benefited farmers.

Pointing out that the loss of purchasing power in agricultural centers was felt "particularly in the industrial areas," the statement said: "Mr. Barnum has forgotten that great paradox of mountain and wheat stored in the middlewest and the miles of breadlines in our industrial cities."

The adjustment act was passed to remedy such conditions, the statement said, adding that in 1934 the cash farm income for the nation was $6,100,000,000, or 41 per cent more than in 1932, and the cash available for the farmers' living after meeting expenses was $3,250,000,000 or "more than double the total of $1,463,000,000 available for living in 1932."

Despite the increase, it said, rental and benefit payments to farmers totaled only 7.3 per cent of 1934's cash farm income.

"Mr. Barnum calls attention to the processing tax collections in New York," the statement recalled, "and says that out of the more than 80 million dollars collected, farmers in the state 'got back only $384,520.'"

"Processing tax collections are heaviest in concentrated industrial centers, such as New York. Those taxes, while collected within a state, are ultimately paid by consumers in all sections of the country."

Shipments of industrial and manufactured goods from 16 northeastern states to 10 southeastern agricultural states, where cotton and tobacco programs are in effect, increased 38.8 per cent as the farm income in the southern states rose 59.9 per cent, the division asserted.

As a result, it said, "New York city and many of the cities and towns of up-state have accelerated their manufacturing operations with corresponding increases in employment and general business activity."

Tourist travel to Ontario already exceeds in volume any year except 1929, the record year in the history of the record.

"Woman in Red" Says Dillinger Delighted To Read Press Stories

(Copyright, 1935, By Associated Press)
Chicago, July 19—John Dillinger, the desperado whose death at the hands of federal agents last July 22 ended the world's most famous man hunt, was described today by "The Woman in Red" as a criminal who delighted in reading newspaper accounts of his crimes.

Mrs. Anna Sage, popularly supposed to have put Dillinger on the spot for the "G" men, added details today to her story which she told yesterday for the first time when she was found in Chicago.

Known as "The Woman in Red" because of the dress she wore on the night she and Polly Hamilton accompanied Dillinger when he walked out of the Biograph Theatre on Chicago northwest side and into the withering gun-fire of department of justice agents, Mrs. Sage disclosed incidents in the life of the gangster she says she knew as Jimmie Lawrence.

"Jimmie, whom I now know was John Dillinger, was never without the latest editions of the newspapers," she said. "He would sit down and for hours he would avidly read the details of Dillinger's crimes."

"Jimmie" said he thought Dillinger must have been very clever. He said Dillinger was too smart for the cops. Now I know why "Jimmie" thought so highly of Dillinger.

Despite the oft repeated assertion of police that she knew the sweetheart of Polly Hamilton was John Dillinger, Mrs. Sage vehemently denied this charge.

As proof that she was not aware of "Jimmie's" real identity, she said:

"Jimmie and Polly used to take Stevie (her 23 year old son) and his girl to night clubs and amusement parks almost every night. No mother will ever believe that I would have allowed my son to accompany 'Jimmie' if I knew he was John Dillinger. I get cold all over when I think of what might have happened to Stevie if police or federal agents had recognized 'Jimmie' as Dillinger while my son was with him."

Bellowing Bull Runs Wild in Manhattan

New York, July 19 (AP)—A bellowing bull ran amok through Delancey street today and had to be subdued by 20 policemen.

Pushtart peddlers scattered in fright as the 1,800 pounds of unleashed might squeezed its way out of a truck and cavorted about for 20 minutes with all the reckless abandon of its kind.

Lacking only the bright trappings of the professional matador, the patrolmen strove vainly to bait the beast and finally contrived to take it in tow.

The animal was tied to a truck driven by Joseph Cella of 84 24th street) Guttenberg, N. J., who was ordered to drive ahead to a nearby garage. Their progress was checked momentarily.

Goaded to high dudgeon by the taunts of onlookers, the captors constructed a runway to the truck and settled down to the last roundup. While five patrolmen tugged at a rope attached to the bull's head, others teased his tail and pushed him onto the truck where he was securely fastened.

Cella, protesting vehemently, was ordered to take the beast to a Brooklyn slaughterhouse.

Land for the White House
The principal owners of the land on which the city of Washington is built were Daniel Carroll of the Duddington branch of the Carroll family, a cousin of Charles Carroll of Carrollton, the signer: Samuel Davidson, Netley Young and David Burrows. The land on which the White House stands belonged to David Burrows, an aged Scotchman, who very reluctantly gave up his 600 acres for the federal city when negotiations were in progress for buying up land for the National Capital. Daniel Carroll owned a large tract of land along the eastern branch of the Potomac river, which included the site of the Capitol.

The California poet who is going to join the pioneer settlers in the Matanuska Valley and write an epic poem about them isn't up on epics. Successful ones are never written until hundreds of years after the event. You can no more get an epic out of current life than authentic words come to a new choice.

Whiteface Highway To Open Saturday

Lake Placid, N. Y., July 18 (AP).—The Whiteface Mountain Memorial Highway, an eight-mile macadam road cut through solid Adirondack mountain granite in one of the most difficult engineering feats in recent years, will be officially opened to traffic tomorrow.

After ceremonies at the toll house, three miles up the roadway, a motorcade headed by state officials will make the first trip over the highway to the summit of Whiteface.

Built by the state in memory of its World War dead, the Whiteface road traverses one of the most beautiful and inaccessible spots in the Adirondack forest preserve and leads to within a few hundred feet of the mountain peak.

The last three miles of the road were blasted out of a solid granite bed, the deepest excavations reaching down 30 feet. The building of retaining walls was one of the most difficult phases of construction.

The walls are made of the granite taken out of the mountainside, and they are 50 feet high at some points, 20 feet thick at the base and tapering to two or three feet at the road level.

The road is 20 feet wide, climbing to 4,872 feet above sea level. A flight of stone steps leads from the end of the highway toward the mountain summit. The gradual, winding ascent has been planned so that the average grade of the highway is 8 per cent, and is not more than 10 per cent for any appreciable distance. Curves are wide and slightly banked.

Legion Annual Meeting Tonight

The annual meeting and election of officers of Kingston Post, American Legion, will be held in the Memorial building this evening, at which time the recommendations of candidates as submitted at the last meeting of the Post for the various offices to be filled, will be acted on. For the office of commander, Eugene Freer, a former past commander of the Hudson Legion, is the choice of the committee. It is rumored that there might possibly be a battle for the office as another member's name was recommended at the June meeting.

A guest of the meeting will be William Healey, a past national vice-commander, who is also a past department commander of the state of Pennsylvania. Comrade Healey will give a short talk to the members. The usual reports of committees will be given and a large attendance is urged to be on hand not only to take part in the election but to hear Comrade Healey.

First Aid Lesson For Vacation Trip

Speaking from his experience in the first aid and life saving service of the American Red Cross Harold F. Enlow has listed some hints for safe vacation travel for motorists, campers and tourists everywhere.

"Everyone who takes a trip of any kind this summer—a motor trip through Europe, a week-end at the shore or in the mountains, a summer camping trip, a railroad or automobile trip to see America first, wants to have a good time every day of his stay.

"Wise travelers know however that after their driver has obeyed all highway rules and observed all reasonable precautions against disaster there may yet be emergencies which must be met immediately, by those nearest the scene if prompt medical attention is not available.

"The person who is quick witted in an emergency will remember what he has been told about first aid to the injured. If he has taken Red Cross first aid courses, made possible by thousands of Red Cross chapters all over the United States, he has a fund of information on which to rely in a time of crisis.

"This vacation expert will know what to do if somebody breaks a bone. He understands the need of some sort of splint and he knows the right and wrong way to put one on. He will find something close at hand he can use—wood, laths, umbrellas, heavy cardboard, canes, rolls of blanket or cloth. These he will put on in a way that will lessen pain and will prevent the injury to the broken bone surface which might slow up the knitting process and, conceivably, cause permanent injury.

"He will know that a joint that is sprained should be elevated so less blood will flow into the injured area, and he will explain that applications of heat or cold will contract the blood vessels which have been broken and will limit the escape of blood into the tissues, these applications to be continued from 24 to 48 hours. He will use rubbing alcohol for treating these injuries, rubbing the liquid on gently, always with a motion toward the heart.

"The expert traveler will take it for granted that everyone in his party has had the common sense to learn to recognize and avoid poison ivy, sumac or poison oak. If someone does make a mistake he will make a stiff lather of soap and water, bathing the skin with it and later with rubbing alcohol. If a rash develops in spite of this treatment he will use something else, possibly a solution of Epsom salts, as strong as can be made with cold water, or calamine lotion to which a druggist has added enough carbolic acid to make a 2 per cent solution, or a 5 per cent solution of ferric chloride in 50 per cent alcohol.

"It is not this up-to-date first aid expert who thinks whiskey is good for snake bites. The man who really knows says to get a physician as soon as possible, and to avoid giving alcoholic stimulants. He will have been taught how to tie a tourniquet above the bite, to increase congestion; he will know how to make a clean incision, with knife or razor blade, over each fang mark; he will know how to use suction on the incision, by mouth, or by a small funnel attached to a rubber bulb. And if the doctor is delayed in reaching the scene the first aider will have extracted much of the venom from the wound.

"Some degree of shock follows most injuries, and people who are not injured otherwise often need treatment for this condition. The expert knows that shock results in most instances from a retarded circulation, and that the patient's body heat very rapidly, as a result of this poor circulation. His utmost effort is therefore directed toward keeping the patient's body warm, covering him well with robes and blankets, taking care to put covering under as well as over him. External heat will be applied, through hot water bottles, heated bricks and dinner plates, etc. Stimulants will be used in cases of mild shock when aromatic spirits of ammonia or some similar drug will be used. A cupful of hot milk, or even of hot water, will be useful, although the trained worker knows that he must never attempt to force an unconscious person to drink anything.

"To the swimmer this expert traveler will say several things: Don't swim too soon after eating; don't dive into cold water when overheated; don't drink cold or ice water just before swimming. Swimming places should be carefully chosen, with shallow water for beginners and deep water for experienced divers. And he will know the technique of rescue for any swimmer who gets beyond his depth or is involved in any sort of water accident.

"All summer vacationists should carry at least a simple first aid kit, with sterile gauze dressings, adhesive tape and rolled bandages for the immediate treatment of all minor cuts and scratches. Iodine should be included in the kit and applied at half strength, 3 1/2 per cent, no matter how small the scratch.

"This information, and much more that deals with accidents and injuries that may come during the vacation season, is at the service of the expert traveler who has been wise enough to study first aid. However, he does not rely wholly on his memory. For his own use, or that of anyone who may need it, he has with him a copy of the American Red Cross first aid text book, with its detailed instructions as to proper emergency treatment for injuries and the illustrations that show just how the treatment is applied.

For additional protection for vacationists the Red Cross suggests precautionary measures against typhoid fever. Dr. William B. Kistner, medical director of the American Red Cross, suggests the following:

"Never drink water from shallow or surface wells, no matter how many other people are using them with no apparent ill effects. A well of this type may be safe one day and polluted the next. Municipal water supplies and drilled wells are usually safe. Avoid drinking from streams which may appear pure and crystal clear yet be in fact dangerously polluted."

Local Red Cross chapters will supply to prospective travelers information.

Official Quarters on Newburgh's Interest

A recent letter from a taxpayer, published under "The Public Pulse," asked why The Newburgh News editorially spoke in favor of the proposed city charter for Kingston. It is held in official quarters here that the editorial policy of the Newburgh paper, which is a member of the Gannett newspaper chain, and supported a revision of local government in that city, is interested in other cities and that Kingston, which is to have a vote on its charter next Monday, deserves similar support even from the press which does not circulate in its territory.

SCORN FOR NIFTY GARS ERASED BY MOSCOW

Moscow (AP)—Bolsheviks, who think white collars, neckties and silk dresses are signs of class leanings, have suffered a resounding rebuff. The government approved a "better appearance" campaign which urges the public to devote more thought to clothes.

Said the official newspaper Logkaya Industriya: "The desire to wear nice clothes must be respected." The public flocked to a fashion show held under government auspices in a Moscow park. Sport dresses, evening gowns and silk lingerie were on display.

Wanted, A Camera.

Rochester, N. Y.—His best girl told lifeguard Derwood Brough that he would have to do something about his sunburned nose, or else.

So Brough started bathing at one of Rochester's municipal beaches on Lake Ontario by wearing a nose awning. Shaped of soft leather like a miniature horse's bladder, it was taped to the bridge of his proboscis. Other guards and bathers laughed at first. Now they are taking up the idea.

"A nose is very funny," mused chief guard Bill Cox. "The rest of the body takes on a nice tan, but the nose never does anything but turn very red."

Fumigated Felons.

WAR BROADCAST

LEADS TO JAIL

Olmutz, Czechoslovakia (AP)—All residents of Dobromietz, a small nearby town, gathered to listen to a home-made radio station set up by J. Dostal and G. Mielunek. Suddenly the loud speaker blared: "This is the Czechoslovakian news agency. Hungary has just declared war on Yugoslavia. Czechoslovakia, as a friendly state, has ordered general mobilization. All men from 11 to 60 must report for service. The populace must provide its own food." The crowd dissolved, the men hurrying to enlist and the women making tracks for the groceries.

The next day in court the broadcasters said they thought the announcement was a good joke. They were given eight days in jail in which to revise their ideas of humor.

Lawmaker Talks On Lawmaking

Assemblyman Conway Delivers Interesting Address On The Mechanics Of Lawmaking At Kiwanis Luncheon.

"Legislation," from inspiration to enactment, was the topic discussed by Assemblyman J. Edward Conway, before members of the Kiwanis Club at the Governor Clinton Hotel on Thursday noon. The speaker's address was concerned with the mechanics of law making and proved to be an extremely interesting topic well presented.

The first step in any proposed change in the present laws or the enactment of any new law is the inspiration of a legislator, citizen or group of citizens who think that some new idea or change will be of benefit to the people of the state, began the speaker, explaining that if the legislator had the inspiration he would submit his ideas to the Bill Drafting Commission, or a group would first take the plan to a legislator for such action. This commission is composed of lawyers who study the ideas and aid in the drafting of a proposed bill so that it will not conflict with other measures or so that it will provide striking out old measures which would conflict.

The proposed bill then goes to the legislature and at the next regular session the first reading is given the measure, which consists merely of reading the title of the bill, after which the measure is referred to the proper committee. The bill is then printed and copies of it are placed on the desk of each legislator and copies are available to anyone interested. A hearing, either public or private depending upon the importance of the measure, is held with the introducer explaining his bill and answering questions before the committee, and if the committee in executive session reports the bill favorably it then goes to the legislature for a second reading. If the committee's action is unfavorable the bill dies.

A second reading before the legislature is then given the bill, which like the first consists in merely reading the title. Debate on the bill is permissible at this time but rarely occurs.

After three days the third reading is given the bill. Debate pro and con usually results after which a vote on the measure is taken.

The vote may be by one of two ways, short or slow roll call. In a short roll call the name of the first legislator by alphabet and the last name by alphabet of both parties are called and the votes recorded on that basis. If a legislator wants to go on record by vote he may ask for a slow roll call, during which each legislator's name is called and he rises and records his opinion for or against. If the bill gets favorable action by vote the secretary and speaker of the branch of the legislature certifies the bill and it then goes to the other House where a similar action takes place all over again.

If both Houses approve the bill it then goes to the Governor, who has 10 days in which to approve or veto the measure. If the bill is introduced within 10 days of the closing of the session, the Governor may take 30 days to decide what he wants to do with the bill. If he fails to take any action within 30 days the bill becomes a law without his signature.

In 1935, Assemblyman Conway stated, there were 3,019 bills introduced for consideration in the legislature, of which 1,325 were approved by both Houses. Of that number 343 were vetoed by the Governor and 950 approved.

The speaker closed his remarks with a list of the more important measures enacted at the last session, together with a list of constitutional amendments which will be voted upon this fall and next.

President Morris Samter thanked the speaker for his address on behalf of the club. The music was in charge of Paul Zucca, assisted at the piano by Danny Bittner.

HITLER YOUTH DISPLACED IN FORMER REICH COLONY

Windhoek, S. W. Africa, (AP)—The Deutsche Bund in Southwest Africa has been given permission to reorganize the German youth of the former imperial colony after pledging the government that no foreign political influences will creep into the movement.

When Adolf Hitler attained power in Germany, the Hitler Youth Movement absorbed here the "Pfadfinders," similar to the Boy Scouts. Then the Hitler organization was banned and the boys were left without an organization.

The new body, the Deutsche Bund says, will be on cultural and recreational lines, closely akin to the Boy Scout movement.

Linen blouses

Liana Murwin

For the travel wardrobe, week-ending or business, the cool summer suits with a change of blouse make an ultra-practical outfit.

There are blouses of linen, pique, sheers, mousseline, organdie and seersucker, all washable, cool and crisp, giving a fresh touch to the summer suit or smart variation with a separate skirt for another change of costume.

The pastel colors such as bird-egg blue, country green, iris, bluish pink, heaven blue are well thought of, as well as the always favored white.

The blouse of white linen at left above is distinctive. It is called a "jacket" blouse, worn over the skirt, with two patch pockets, fitted darts, large pearl buttons, short sleeves and action pleats. The neckline is finished with a roll of bright red organdie which ties in a colossal bow under the chin.

At right is shown another linen blouse in pink tone with a diagonally tucked vestee front, dropped shoulders and a high, solitary V-shaped neckline. Twin pearl buttons hold the front neckline closed. This model too, is darted to hug the hips but can be worn as a tuck-in also.

MRS. UPTON SINCLAIR

Mrs. Upton Sinclair

Virtually unknown to the voting public, Mrs. Upton Sinclair is the real "power behind the throne" in her husband's long campaign for "social justice." Although she insisted on remaining entirely in the background, she was the former socialist's chief adviser in his democratic race for governor of California last fall. . . . As Mary Craig Sinclair, she is the author of several sonnets and other poems, and is the daughter of a Mississippi judge. Years ago, white robed, she paraded before J. P. Morgan's headquarters in New York . . . the only successful picket in the Colorado coal strike. Other pickets, while Sinclair was in jail, had been arrested. During Sinclair's current production-for-use campaign over the nation, Mrs. Sinclair is his constant counselor.

Alterie's Slayings

Chicago, July 19 (AP).—The police discovered today that the slayers of "Two Gun" Louis Alterie left their "signatures" behind them.

"Clear fingerprints" were found on the automatic .12 gauge shotgun Alterie's assassins abandoned after the gangster's killing, Capt. Gregory Moran of the Town Hall police disclosed.

The prints were rushed to the detective bureau for identification. Others were found on a green suitcase trunk in the first floor apartment from which the killers fled upon Alterie when the one-time "cannon" of Don O'Banion's gang stepped from his hotel yesterday morning.

The theory of investigators was that Alterie was killed by rivals jealous of his job as life president of the Theatrical Janitors' Union or because Alterie had been trying to take over control of the wealthy Motion Picture Operators' Union.

Highlights of the Proposed Charter

(Editor's Note:—This article, written by Hollister Sturges, Jr., Freeman staff correspondent at Albany during the legislative session, is an endeavor to put before the voters of Kingston certain highlights of the proposed city charter to be voted upon next Tuesday.)

By HOLLISTER STURGES, JR.

Whether or not Kingston should have a new charter to replace the existing one which present incumbents sincerely believe to have served its usefulness must be decided upon by the people themselves when they go to the polls on Tuesday, July 23.

Some citizens have taken an indifferent attitude and are not interested in the charter one way or the other because they believe it will have little effect upon them directly, and these people appear to also have the attitude that the present charter is good enough so why all this talk of a new one when things seemingly are going along smoothly. Then there are those greatly in favor of this charter and others just as definitely opposed.

Opinion generally is conceded that the proposed charter is better than the one which Kingston operates under today. Many take exception to minor points and yet would vote in opposition to the proposed one because of a minor difference to the entire scheme of a newer and more modern government.

There is prevalent a belief that the business of a new charter is political in its nature and that it is a personal affair with the present mayor, Conrad J. Heiselman. This Mr. Heiselman emphatically denies and states that the proposed charter as far as he is concerned is entirely an impersonal affair. He explains that it is to give Kingston a modern government that will last many years to come, and that his personal holding of office bears no relationship to passage or defeat of the proposed charter.

The fact that William P. Capes, executive secretary of New York State Mayors' Conference, so heartily endorses a new form of government should carry some weight to the minds of persons in doubt as to the advisability of this charter. Challenging the doubt that there would be too much centralization of power vested in the office of mayor and that a dictator or czar might run the city's administration, Mr. Capes, in an address given before the Joint Rotary-Kiwanis meeting on June 19 of this year, asserted: "It has been called to my attention by newspaper articles that some people think this proposed plan will make a dictator or czar of the mayor. This is absolutely untrue, and who ever advances that argument is ignorant of the provisions of the proposed charter."

"The mayor's chief powers are administrative. So far as municipal policies are concerned, and these are really important powers in city government, the mayor has only power to recommend and approve. He has no power to adopt. The real policy-making officials are the members of the common council. The mayor does not control either the common council or the board of estimate. His veto can be overridden by a four-fifths vote of the common council. All that the mayor can do under the proposed charter is to carry out through the heads of departments he appoints the policies that are adopted by the council and the board of estimate."

"In practically half the cities in the state the mayor now has and has had for some time, the same powers or more than are conferred upon him by the proposed charter of Kingston."

It is entirely fair to say that those who regard the proposed charter as disregarding prejudices of a political nature, will see the value of this local legislation as a progressive step toward making Kingston a modern city which can only be done when it has a modern government. The concentration of the several departments does away with overlapping and makes for greater efficiency of government. It means less expense to the city with a consequent lower tax rate.

Mr. Capes, in his address, stated: "Under its present charter, Kingston has one of the most decentralized federal types of government in New York state. A few other cities are in a similar position. Only one other city has a worse decentralization of administration and legislative powers. The reason for this is that you have board and commission organization. Government by boards is now almost universally condemned."

Kyle of the National Ayrshire Breeders' Association of Brandon, Vermont.

Jackson Chose Site for U. S. Treasury Building

It is said that the architect of the Treasury building at Washington wished it to be set amid grounds commensurate with its dignity and beauty, instead of placing it upon the Capitol's busiest thoroughfare. The story goes, however, says the Washington Star, that President Andrew Jackson, becoming impatient at the long delayed choosing of a site, finally stuck his cane into the ground one morning and said, "Build it here!"

It is the world's greatest depository of money and the government's "pig money" vault.

Objects of interest are shown in the corridors entered from Pennsylvania avenue. Among these are:

Keys used before the invention of combination locks; mutilated currency restored by Mrs. A. E. Brown, who spent 40 years in this work; Presidential, army, navy and other medals; illustrations of the process of making notes and coins; specimens of the mace and pulp; warrant and draft for payment to Russia for Alaska, with the famous Spinner signature; three warrants for payment for Panama canal strip, $40,000,000, $10,000,000 and $9,000,000, and the flag that draped Lincoln's box in Ford's theater on the night of the assassination.

Negroes Not Only Black or Dark-Skinned People

Negroes are by no means the only black or dark-skinned people, nor even the only black people of Africa. The Nubians and Hottentots are darker than some of the negroes of the elevated plateaus of Central Africa, says a writer in the Cleveland Plain Dealer.

But taking the term in its popular sense in this country, it may be said that the negro race is as old as history. Negroes were apparently unknown to the Greeks before the seventh century B. C., but they were known to the Egyptians at least 2200 B. C., and are represented on Egyptian monuments of 1800 B. C., with all the distinctive features of the true Guinea negroes of our own times.

The importation of slaves to the United States was abolished by Constitutional provision in 1808. Slaves were smuggled into this country in a few instances after that time, the last case occurring shortly before the Civil war. Since then there has been a considerable migration of negroes to the United States from the West Indies.

Have You Seen This One?

Dry as the season may be, an unusual tree growing in Madagascar and known always in preparation to refresh thirsty travelers. It is called the Traveler's Palm. From the trunk extend fan-like leaves, each with a sheath at its base where water is stored. By glancing a leaf at the base, therefore, passersby may drink from nature's own water fountain. The leaves are now used extensively in building native huts.

Wiley Post Plans
Pioneering Flight

Los Angeles, July 19 (AP).—Wiley Post is choosing the second anniversary of his solo flight around the world for another far-flung aerial adventure.

On July 22, 1933, he landed at New York after a whirlwind pace over 15,400 miles of continents and oceans. He had girdled the world in 7 days, 15 hours and 48 minutes.

Next Monday, another July 22, he plans to hop off with his wife in a big new monoplane on the first leg of a trans-Pacific journey covering Alaska and Siberia, and on to Moscow.

The project has been unofficially described as a preliminary survey for a possible air route to link America and Asia.

But with an engaging grin, the former Oklahoma oil driller declared: "There are lots of tigers in Siberia. I'm going to hunt them."

As for taking notice of the world-flight anniversary in other ways—"I'm too busy to say anything about it," he remarked, while supervising the final tune-up of the specially-built ship which will substitute for his famed Winnie Mae on the far-north trip.

Its landing gear will be replaced by pontoons when Post reaches Seattle, in preparation for spanning the inland water route to Nome, and of a trans-Pacific journey covering Alaska and Siberia, and on to Moscow.

"I did just as I was told by my doctor, and today I need my highest praise for what your ALL-BRAN has done for me." Mrs. Jas. Maneely, Jr., 3 Edinboro St., Valley Falls, N. Y.

"Due to insufficient 'bulk' in my diet."

All-BRAN provides gentle "bulk" to help overcome chronic constipation. It is also a good source of vitamins B and iron.

The "bulk" of ALL-BRAN is often more effective than the "bulk" in fruits and vegetables, as it does not break down within the body. Two tablespoons daily are usually sufficient. If not corrected this way, see your doctor.

Dairymen Defeated By The Berardi A. C. By Score of 15-5

Berardi A. C., making its initial bow in the City League, had an easy time disposing of Ad Jones' Dairymen at the Athletic Field, Thursday evening. The game was a repetition of the one played in the loop the previous night and the large score of 15 to 5 resulted.

Errors again played a big part in the win. The Dairymen had a hard time fielding the ball, committing eight errors and these, mixed with 11 hits, spelled defeat for them.

Tommy Malnes and Al DeCicco led the hitters with three hits apiece, while Mac Tiano and Chapple Van Derzee showed the way to the long-distance hitters with a triple apiece.

Julius Chick was the winning pitcher. He was nipped for eight hits, but kept them well spaced, not more than two coming in an inning.

Harry Geisler, who was hit hard in spots, he would have fared much better if his defense hadn't cracked.

Both teams scored in the first inning. The Dairymen opening the contest with a lone tally while the Berardi's registered four times.

There was scoring in every inning but the fifth and sixth. The Dairymen tallied one in the second, one in the third and two in the fourth. Berardi's big inning was the third when they showed six runs across the platter. Their other runs came in the second and fourth.

The case of Burgomaster donated by Fitzgerald Bros. for the first circuit court of the week was threatened several times.

Mary Hoerger, 11, Wins Low Board Title At Manhattan Beach

By EDWARD O'NEIL

(Associated Press Sports Writer)

New York, July 19 (AP)—The men in the press box, probably most of the 5,000 gathered under the blazing sun around the big pool, too, held their breaths and muttered:

"Now, if she just won't try anything tough...."

So the spindly mite of the diving board, Mary Hoerger, 11 years old now, 12 next month, promptly went into the toughest diving convulsion of them all, a two-and-a-half forward somersault.

Over and over she whirled while the big crowd gasped. Then she straightened out, knifed into the water with scarcely a ripple. The crowd burst out in a spontaneous roar of delight, and the three-meter springboard diving championship went to Mary Hoerger, of Miami Beach, Fla., youngest and certainly the smallest athlete ever to hold a national championship at anything but marble shooting.

Mary sent the four-day Women's National Swimming Championships off with a spectacular push yesterday, and Lenore Night of Homestead, Pa., greatest of the nation's distance swimmers, kept the sensations rolling under the blazing sky above Manhattan Beach's 50-meter pool.

The husky 43-year-old Pennsylvania girl opened her triple title defense by swimming a mile in 24 minutes 20.4 seconds, faster than any woman ever swam it before.

She was the second champion to repeat last year's victory, as Olive McKean, six-foot power sprinter from Seattle, opened the title events with an easy conquest in the 100-meter free style event.

Miss McKean, though her time for the hundred was slow, 1:10.2, was almost a second faster than Katherine Rawls of Miami Beach, who chased her home in the final.

Popular though little Miss Hoerger's victory was, it was mighty close. She piled up 128.59 points, less than a point better than the 127.80 awarded Janice Litson of New York. Last year's champion, Miss Rawls did not defend her title.

Georgia Coleman, former champion who had looked the field over in practice and remarked that none could do a two-and-one-half forward somersault "and get away with it," marvelled at the skill of the baby diver.

The STANDINGS

By HUGH S. FULLERTON, JR.

Associated Press Sports Writer.

Both the Giants and Yankees have been watching their leads dwindle steadily the last two weeks. The margins may be even smaller Monday, when the Tigers go to New York to take on the Yanks and the Giants invade St. Louis for a bout with the Cardinals.

The Yanks' margin was clipped again to 1 1/2 games yesterday when the New Yorkers lost an 11-inning battle 4 to 1 to the cellar-dwelling Browns. The Giants escaped from Cincinnati with a four-game lead and nothing much else after they had gone 12 frames to beat the Reds 5 to 3.

The Yanks' failure to bunch their hits off Dick Coffman cost them the decision, for Charley Ruffing pitched five-hit ball for ten frames before he finally allowed the odd run. Then Pat Malone forced in two more tallies with passes.

The Giants worked the other way, scoring twice in the ninth with the aid of two errors and a passed ball, then battling out two more off relief finger Don Brennan in the 12th.

The Tigers, meanwhile, slashed into the Yanks' lead by bowling over the Red Sox 8 to 0. As Schoolboy Rowe pitched a five-hit game and nipped his mound rival, West Ferrell, for three important blows.

The Cardinals, still playing as if every pitch meant a pennant, beat the Braves 13 to 3 for their 14th consecutive victory. Paul Dean gave five hits, while Burgess Whitehead led an 18-hit attack with four blows. Bill Delaney and Pepper Martin socked homers.

The Cubs put on a hitting spree to remain four games behind the Cards as they trounced the Phillies 11 to 3 with the aid of circuit swats by Chuck Klein, Augie Galan and Frank Demaree and some brilliant relief hurling by Charley Root.

Brooklyn regained fifth place by knocking off the Pirates for the fourth straight time, 5 to 3.

The Senators and Athletics rounded out a big day for the American League's second division. Aube, the former trimming the White Sox 6 to 4 with a 13-hit attack behind Buck Newsom, and latter beating the Indians 7 to 5 as Pinky Higgins clouted two homers, the second supplying the winning runs.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

By VICTOR EUBANK.
(Associated Press Financial Writer).

New York, July 19 (AP)—Diverse price trends accompanied profit taking in today's stock market.

The list displayed a fairly firm tone at the active opening. The pace slowed down appreciably as realizing began to crop out in scattered groups. Also a few specialists kept their heads well above water.

Grains were just about steady and cotton eased. Bonds paid little attention to stocks and the majority of secondary loans recorded small gains. The dollar improved against the principal foreign exchanges.

Such shares as Case, Johns-Manville, Motor Products and Radio Preferred "B" got up around a point and improvement was registered by Olden, Murray Corp., Commercial Solvents, Public Service of New Jersey and Acme Steel.

On the other hand, Corn Products dropped more than 3 points and issues not unchanged to off a point or so included American Telephone, Caterpillar Tractor, U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Union Pacific, Santa Fe, Amstar, Atlantic Refining, Standard Oil of New Jersey and California, Consolidated Gas, Western Union and General Electric.

Paris, July 19 (AP)—Removal of mud was heard today as warblers sang. A woman, who had been in the water for some time, was rescued by a lifeguard. She was taken to a hospital and is now recovering.

GLASSMAKER EXPERT IN MIDDLE AGE ART

Turns Out Church Windows in Medieval Style.

Bethayres, Pa.—The atmosphere of a medieval workshop pervades the studio of Lawrence B. Saint, famous American stained glass artist, who is at work on windows for the Protestant Episcopal cathedral at Washington.

Saint has been at work on these windows for six and one-half years. He was one of the artists on the designing and construction of windows for the Swedenborgian cathedral at Bryn Athyn, near here.

It took Saint and his associates working in their respective departments of the studio on Second street pike, Bethayres, 11 years to complete that particular task.

Spends Life at Art.
Since he was seventeen, more than thirty years ago, Saint has been working and experimenting with glass. During the last seventeen years he has created only ecclesiastical glass.

The glass worker not only designs and constructs the panels, which later become windows, but also makes all his own glass, following closely formulae used by ancient glassmakers. He has had several pieces of ancient glass analyzed and from the findings has been able to approximate the texture and colorings of the ancient glassmakers. Although this has involved tremendous research and experimentation, the results have been very gratifying.

Saint does not attempt to copy existing windows, but seeks to recapture the beauty of color and the enduring qualities of the Middle-Age glassmakers.

Seeks More Lifelike Figures.
He contends that many of the figures in Eleventh and Twelfth century windows are very unreal and impossible in posture and proportion. "I am trying to design more lifelike figures," he says.

Some of Saint's remarkable colors have been the result of pure accident. On a trip to Europe Saint procured a small piece of glass which he had ground up and analyzed. Under the microscope he found the various layers of color. Finally he hit upon one of the secrets of the rich red glass modern until then had been able to duplicate.

Following a formula the resultant glass was green, with only a few pale streaks of red. He laid it out on the tray of a paint-drying kiln. Some one inadvertently turned on the heat. When the piece of glass was discovered, to Saint's surprise, it had turned a rich, ruby red!

Yellowstone Park Opens for Sixty-Third Season
Yellowstone Park, Wyo.—Yellowstone National park has just entered its official season. This year marks the sixty-third since the establishment of Yellowstone as the first national park. Officials feel that the 1930 season will equal the surprising travel mark of last year when 260,773 visitors were checked in at the five stations. Travelers now are able to enter each of the gateways, the south entrance having been the last to open just before the season officially began.

Improved moisture conditions because of the great snowfall reflected everywhere in the park in greener hills, an abundance of flowers, swollen, heavy streams, and vastly improved grazing conditions for the wild animals. The long-awaited break in the drought is extremely welcome to park rangers who have expressed some concern in the past three years over the condition of the range.

Five lodges will be open to visitors this summer.

Los Angeles, Calif.—Home to Dr. and Mrs. R. H. Taylor and son, Stuart, two and one-half, is where they park their automobile.

They are in Los Angeles on their fifteenth year of trailer-traveling which has taken them 500,000 miles, to every town and hamlet in the United States.

Science Standardizes Cooling Birds' Sex Life
Minneapolis—A University of Iowa biologist reported that after years of experiments the love life of birds has been put on a year-around basis.

Real Winters told the American Association for the Advancement of Science it always has been a mystery why birds exhibited sex action only during the nesting season.

Now, he said, they can be made to lay and coo for months on end.

It's done by injecting gonadotropin, or sex hormone, obtained from pregnant horses and sheep.

Female sparrows, Winters also said, are likely to lay four or five eggs and then quit. If the eggs are removed as they lay them, however, they will go on laying up to fifty or more.

The latest reports are found in Florida and Cuba.

Anti-Trust Law Prosecutor Smokes A Corn-Cob Pipe, Scans Medieval Literature

By HERBERT PLUMMER.

Washington, (AP)—Future violators of the nation's anti-trust laws must reckon with John Dickinson, corn-cob pipe smoker "farmer" who has achieved wide acclaim in three fields: constitutional law, medieval literature, economy.

Dickinson, former assistant secretary of commerce, recently was transferred to the justice department as assistant attorney general in charge of anti-trust prosecutions.

The broad-shouldered Pennsylvanian is a recognized authority in administrative and constitutional law. He has practiced in New York and California, where for a time he was a law partner of Senator William G. McAdoo. More recently he has held the chair of constitutional law at the University of Pennsylvania.

Honored By France.

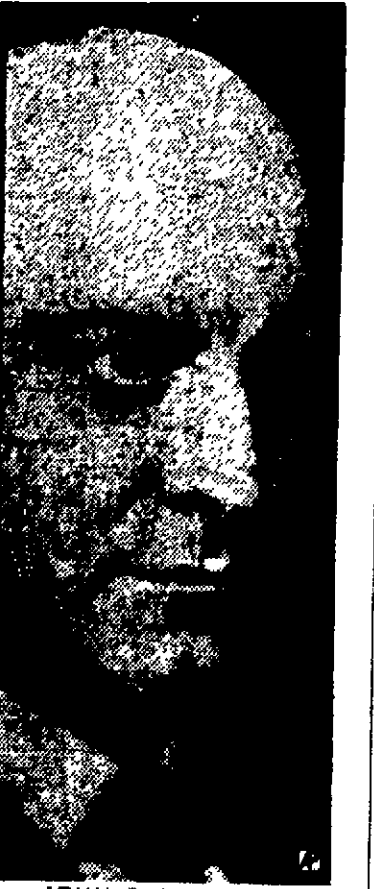

His writings in the field of jurisprudence, in which he belongs to the conservative school, have been recognized here and abroad. They have brought him membership in the Institut International de Philosophie du Droit et de Sociologie Juridique, to which only a few Americans, including Dean Pound and Justice Cardozo, have been elected.

Just past his 41st birthday, Dickinson is a man of tremendous energy. Translates Latin, Greek.

His collection of books on medieval literature runs into the thousands. A diversion is translating rare old volumes of Latin and Greek. He owns and supervises several farms in Maryland.

Taught Economics.

A student of public administration and economics, he taught these subjects while working his way through the Harvard law school. He supervised the investigation into the cloak and suit industry for the victory commission appointed by Governor Alfred E. Smith in 1925.

Roar of Cannons May Interrupt Ethiopia's New Year's Festivities

By CHARLES NORMAN
(Associated Press Staff Writer)
If Mussolini's African legions were to invade Ethiopia in September, as some military observers predict, they would strike at a country celebrating its New Year.

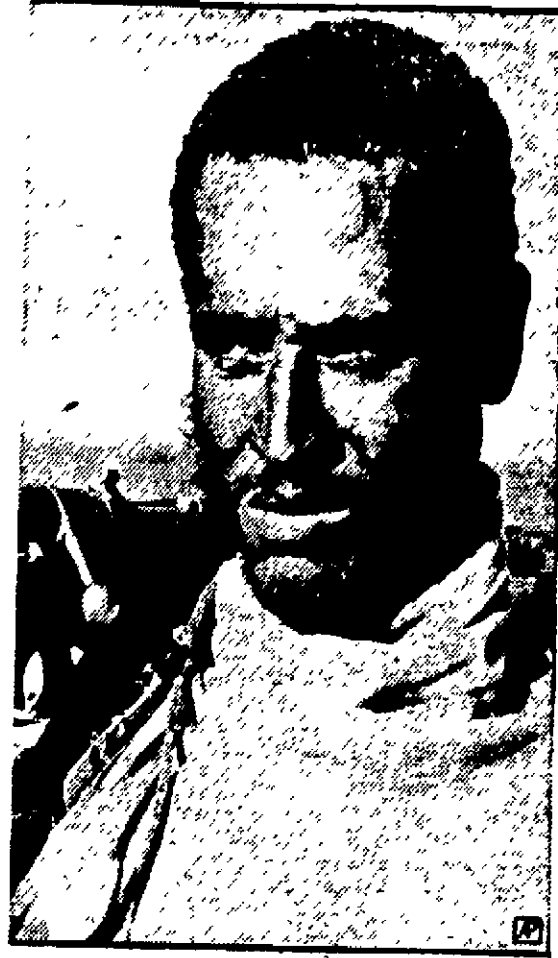

Ethiopia's New Year's day falls on September 11.
"The Abyssinian army," writes a British historian, "is in effect practically the Abyssinian people, for with the exception of priests and monks every man is an actual or potential soldier—love of fighting is in his blood."

It Rains Torrents
September looms as the likely time for invasion because of the peculiar weather conditions that govern the whole of Ethiopia. The country has two seasons, in the main—Baka, which is the dry season, from September to mid-June; and Karama, the wet, rainy season of three and a half months, from mid-June to the end of September.
"When it rains it pours" is an understatement when applied to Ethiopia. The rain comes down in torrents and turns primitive roads into raging streams and rivers. Wartime maneuvers are impossible under such conditions.

Ethiopia's Boundaries
Modern Abyssinia is believed to be composed of three races—the Hamites of north and northeast Africa; a Semitic strain because of invasions from Arabia; and a Nigritic element introduced by intermarriage with conquered negro tribes. For centuries they have beaten back invasion after invasion, and in modern times have inflicted severe defeats on Egypt and Italy.

Emperor Menelik, whose army crushed the Italians in 1896, made boundary treaties with England, France and Italy. The realm now ruled by Haile Selassie, "the Conquering Lion of Judah," consists of Abyssinia on the north and center; the Galla country in the south and southwest; the negro and negroid country of the west; on the east the Moslem tribes and in the southeast the Ogaden Somalis. The rulers of Abyssinia, or as the people prefer to call it, Ethiopia, claim descent from King Solomon and the Queen of Sheba.

The Abyssinians form one third of the population. The Galla invaders of the sixteenth century were subdued by successive Abyssinian kings, and their conquest was completed by Menelik, who added considerable territory to his realm.
The climate of the capital, Addis Ababa, is said to be perfect—bright, never unpleasantly hot, cool because of its altitude, and fanned by breezes long and several yards wide, which resembles the Roman toga. The social station of the wearer can be ascertained by the richness of the chamma.

Modern Ethiopians are a composite of Hamitic, Semitic and Nigritic strains, merged many hundreds of years ago by the mingling of invaders and natives. Although sections of Haile Selassie's land have their variants, the man shown in the picture is fairly typical.

"Ethiopia" Is The Name
(By The Associated Press)
It's "Ethiopia" to the Abyssinians. The Abyssinians comprise one-third of the population of Ethiopia. There are many other races, chiefly the Gallas, sixteenth century invaders finally subdued by Abyssinian kings.

All prefer the historical name of Ethiopia. The national tradition is that their rulers are descended from the Queen of Sheba and King Solomon.

Amphibian "Family Tree"

Traces Ancient Fossils

A "family tree" of amphibians and reptiles, tracing their development from the oldest fossil records to the present time, and a selection of mounted skeletons of typical reptilians, are shown in an exhibit at Field Museum of Natural History, Chicago.

The reptilian family tree shows that existing amphibians and reptiles represent but a small remnant of the great numbers which flourished in the past. The first amphibians flourished hundreds of millions of years ago. Like the reptiles they declined greatly. A single group has survived in the form of salamanders and highly specialized frogs.

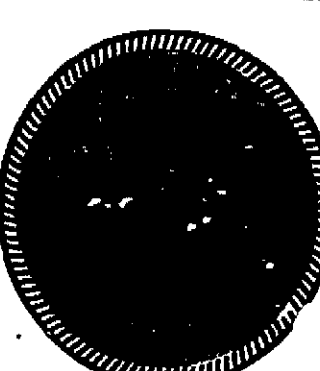

Reptiles are traced from the Mesozoic era, or "age of reptiles." Several extinct groups, together with ancestors of those living today, dominated the animal world at that time, some ninety-five million years ago. During that period the first birds and mammals were evolved from the reptiles and their origins are traced on this family tree.

Elephant Tusks Are Teeth

The projections on an elephant known as tusks are merely elongated incisor teeth in the upper jaw. If these teeth are broken off or extracted they are never replaced. They are preceded by milk teeth, which come out at an early age. Good-sized tusks are produced on both sides of the African elephant, but they seldom occur on the females of the Asiatic or Indian species. In Ceylon only about 1 per cent of either sex have tusks.

Russian Came in London
While the tragic Russian jewels attracted much attention when displayed recently in London, they did not appeal to the British taste. The 2,000 gems, once the property of the czar and czarina, were declared to be magnificent and elaborate, but of a heavy nature which went out of style after the death of Queen Victoria.
